

GIL'AN

Hawk Owl

Chapman 25, 198.

The storyteller is not named.

Gil'an ithchex xiditl'itth'e. Gelixsnal vits'iniqay Hawk owls under a tree they sat. Five children vonh yil dongan giliggi. Xidetsan'. Vinixilyiq mother with six. They were Early in the morning hungry.
xogithi'oy ts'in' xighu dlen ogo q'unt'ux. Dlen long the sun had not risen for mice for she flew Mice many them around.
ilzrek. Yitots'in' digege'qay xighun' yalyah. Xighu she caught. Then her children beside she put For them it.
niltoyilch'il. "Gila visiduxlts'e," yilne. Yitots'in' she tore them up. "Okay be happy for it," she said. Then xighu gatathdle':
for she began to sing:
them

"Aiyuwo'ma yuka'iuq cik Tcimû'qtiya'xya tatlie'myûnû'k ka."

[Chapman's transcription]

Yuxgitsiy ngidugg didlang tthilt'ogg dinithit'uq.
Raven up above spruce top of landed.
Yitots'in' yits'i xinayh. "Ngo gits'idz xivighu inqitr'ot," Then to her he spoke. "Well, improperly you love them," yilne. "Divasre" xeledz lek yan' xitoheł xividighene'?"
he said. "Maybe really dog only they will you tell them?"
eat yilne. Viye xudolningh. Ayigginh niq'olonh yits'i he said. She got angry. That woman to him xatidhingo, "Nginh xutsitl, ngigege'qay lek yan' told him, "You rascal, your children dog only xitoheł," yilne. "Sigege'qay ggagg yan' xitoheł," will eat," she said. "My children game only will eat," yilne. Xuyil Yuxgitsiy ngidigg xuts'in' ni'enithit'uq.
she said. Then Raven up from there flew.

Viye xudolningh.

HAWK-OWL

Note: Chapman's title for this story is "Little-Hawk." This is probably originally a Yup'ik story. The hawk mother's song was in Yup'ik, and in his earliest manuscript of the text Chapman gives a partial translation, "'I have children five.'" Only one word, tallimaneq-qaa 'five-[question marker]' has been identified.

Some hawk owls sat under a tree. There were five children, and their mother, making six in all. They were hungry. Early in the morning, before the sun had risen, she flew around to get mice for them. She caught many mice. She put them beside her children and tore the mice up for them. "Okay, be happy that you have it," she told them. Then she began to sing for them. [Song]

Up above them in a spruce tree a Raven landed. Then he spoke to her. "You don't love your children very well," he said. "I wonder, are you telling them they will only eat dog?" he said. She got angry. The woman told him, "You rascal, it is your children who will eat only dog. My children will eat only game." Then Raven flew up into the air in anger.